

THE FORMATION OF STARS - WHAT WE KNOW AND WHAT WE DON'T

Arnold O. Benz

ETH Zürich, Switzerland

Stars are some of the most common objects in the universe. They form in molecular clouds by self-gravitation. Sounds easy, but it is not and it is much more interesting.